Stockholders' Vote Is Overwhelmingly For Merger, Probably In Next Four Weeks

DETROIT (AP)—Consolidation of the Studebaker Corp. and Packard Motor Car Co. was approved by stockholders today.

Packard stockholders voted a total of 12,016,402 shares, or 82.9 per cent of the total outstanding stock. Of the shares voted almost 90 per cent favored the merger. Studebaker shareholders voted 1,955,320 shares, or 82 per cent of the total shares. Of these 98.6 per cent favored the merger.

The Studebaker vote was tabulated at the company's corporate headquarters in Wilmington, Del. The Packard vote was counted in Detroit.

When final details have been completed, including the transfer of Studebaker properties to Packard, a new company to be known as the Studebaker-Packard Corp. will be created. This probably will be within the next four weeks.

James J. Nance, 53, will be president and chief executive officer. Paul G. Hoffman, 63, will be board chairman, and Harold S. Vance, will head the executive committee.

Nance has been president of Packard; Hoffman and Vance have been board chairman and president, respectively, of Studebaker.

In a statement issued with announcement of the vote, Nance, Hoffman and Vance said: "Pooling of manufacturing facilities will afford opportunities for important savings in production costs and more efficient use of the facilities; combining the engineering staffs will bring better research at lower cost and assure the company still greater leadership in engineering, research, design and styling."

"The company, we believe, will be in a position to become a major factor in defense business, and to grow both in product lines and through possible diversification into other consumer goods fields."

Last of the so-called "Independents" to operate separately in the auto industry, Studebaker and Packard were hard hit by the competitive pressure of the industry's "Big Three" of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

In the first seven months of this year Studebaker built 47,925 cars and 8,168 trucks against 119,063 cars and 27,720 trucks in the comparable 1953 period. Packard's share this year has been 21,329 cars against 67,134 in the January-July period last year.

Only last week Studebaker employees voted at South Bend, Ind., to accept a pay cut, which the company management had said was the only way in which it could regain a competitive position in the industry.

Studebaker, which had a net profit of $2,266,338 in the first six months of 1953, lost $8,925,800 in the January-June period of 1954. Packard, which earned $6,027,251 in the first half of 1953, lost $2,794,400 in this year's first half.

The merger plan contemplates a reclassification of Packard stock. Packard shareholders would get one share of the new $10 common stock for each five of no. par common they now hold. Then Studebaker stockholders would get 14 shares of the new company stock for each share of Studebaker common they now hold.

Lightning Knocks Out Power In 21 Towns

MARVILLE (AP)—This city and 20 other northwest Missouri towns were without power for more than 6 hours after lightning struck a Joseph Light and Power Co., substation early today.

Oil in a large transformer, one of three in a grounding bank connected with a 160,000 volt high line, was ignited. Marville firemen put out the blaze.

The line broke down twice after initial repairs had been made at 4:30 a.m., two hours after the lightning struck.

Citations Go To Justice Department

Corliss Lamont Says He Will Take Case To Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—Contempt of Congress citations voted by the Senate against Corliss Lamont, wealthy New York leftist author, and two other men go to the Justice Department today for possible prosecution.

Lamont, contending senators yielded to "pressure" by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), said he would take the case to the Supreme Court if necessary.

McCarthy, chairman of the Senate Investigations subcommittee, won citations against the trio 71-3 yesterday in hours of often wrangling debate.

Lamont later put out a statement in New York saying the Senate "missed an excellent opportunity to help curb the excesses of the McCarthy committee."

Besides Lamont, son of the late financier Thomas W. Lamont, the citations named Abraham Unger, a New York lawyer, and Albert J. Shaw, an electronics specialist from New York.

They were cited—recommended for prosecution—for declining to answer many questions fired by McCarthy while the senator was sitting as a one-man investigating subcommittee last fall and winter.

None of the three refused to answer on grounds of any Fifth Amendment protection against possible self-incrimination, which McCarthy contends is the only valid ground on which a witness may deny information to congressional investigators.

Lamont, after swearing at the inquiry that "I am not now and never have been a member of the Communist party," challenged the McCarthy subcommittee's jurisdiction on a variety of reasons. These included the First Amendment Guarantee of free speech.

He refused to answer many questions concerning possible association with alleged Communists and to tell whether he had attended Communist meetings.

Lamont was questioned last September concerning the use of some of his writings in textbooks for Army intelligence officers. McCarthy denounced the works as containing Communist propaganda.

Shadowitz was questioned last Dec. 10 in an investigation of alleged Communist infiltration of radar laboratories.

Unger invoked the First Amendment when questioned Sept. 15 and 17 in McCarthy's investigations of alleged Communist activities in the United Nations.

The citations now go to the attorney general to determine whether they should be submitted to grand jury. Contempt of Congress is punishable up to $1,000 fine and a year in prison.

City Council Listens To Zoning Complaints

Also Hears Arguments On Allowing Trailers Sewer Service and Painting Walking Lanes, But It Gets Some Ordinances Passed

By D. Kelly Scruton

City Councilmen listened to complaints at their regular meeting Monday night when Larry O. Griffith Jr., 512 Sunset Drive, complained to the council about actions on rezoning of certain properties in his neighborhood; Sherman Meyers, who has a 30-foot trailer, was complaining to the council he could not bring his trailer into Sedalia and hook it properly to the Sedalia sewer system due to a recently passed ordinance, while 30 or more trailers are still in Sedalia; Billy Fockler, 506 Sunset Drive, complained about the city street workers painting traffic lanes on the streets during the day causing traffic difficulties.

But the City Council got considerable work done in passing curbs and gutters improvements, and passing resolutions to resurface certain streets in the downtown area.

An ordinance was introduced relieving an area from the north side of Broadway between Summit and Wagner avenues, north to the railroad tracks, from a fire zone. The ordinance prior to the relief called for nothing but concrete and brick constructions of fire proof nature. Due to applications to repair various residences, garages and such in the area, the permission could not be granted under the old ruling. Now they can be repaired.

The following ordinances for curb and guttering improvements were passed: East Ninth from Thompson to Hancock; Summer Avenue from Spring to Liberty Park Blvd.; West 13th from Beacon to Warren; and West 11th from Vermont to Missouri.

Rezoning ordinances which were passed are: property in the vicinity of 18th and Sneed from A to B, two-family dwellings; Mrs. Fred Ross, 411 East Fifth, from C to E for business; Lots 15, 16, 17 and 18 of block 9 Pleasantview Addition from A to B two-family dwellings; Lots 18 and 19, Block 3, Broadway Heights Addition from A to E business, on petition of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Wright.

Councilman C. L. Kelley reported on the traffic committee appointed by the mayor Aug. 2, in which he said the committee had already held one meeting with Cline Cain as chairman, and the next meeting is scheduled for Monday night Aug. 30.

Mayor Bagby then stated Police

Chief Edgar Neighbors, Fire Chief John G. Luck, and Councilman Ira White, the chairman of the police committee, would sit with the traffic committee as ex-officio members.

Three bids were opened on a new heating furnace and boiler for the City Hall. The Anderson Heating and Air Conditioning Co., bid $5,000 by an armed man shortly before 1 p.m. today.

The State Highway Patrol said that bank employees caught a glimpse of a maroon car when the robber left after instructing them to turn their backs.

Trooper Jim Engelhart of the patrol said no one saw the robber's car leave, but that witnesses reported seeing two maroon cars packed close to the bank about a half-hour before the robbery.

Engelhart said a woman, wearing sunglasses, was sitting in one of the cars, a 1941 Chevrolet. The other maroon car, Engelhart said, was a 1951 Ford with no license plates.

Leadwood, a town of about 1,500 is about 60 miles south of St. Louis and in St. Francois County.

Bank employees said the man wore no mask but had on dark sun glasses and was carrying a revolver.

Cashier J. S. Warner said an accurate count of the money taken hasn't been made but that it was estimated at about $5,000.

Churchill Asks Confab Tonight On EDC Crisis
LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill summoned four of Britain's top diplomats for a dinner conference tonight to consider the developing crisis over European Defense Community.

A swift British move, informing France of this country's surprise and disappointment over Premier Mendes-France's proposed changes in EDC, was reported in the works.

Churchill called in Sir Ivon Kirkpatrick, Sir Frank Roberts, Sir William Hayter and Sir Gladwyn Jebb to the dinner at his country home at Chartwell.

The four diplomats are key men whose judgments and interpretations help to shape British foreign policy.

Diplomatic informants said Jebb will fly back to Paris before the French leader takes off for Brussels where the foreign ministers of the six EDC nations begin a two-day meeting to consider the French proposals.

Jebb, these sources said, will point out to the French that the French proposals are one of his ministers that Britain considers the French amendments, if adopted, would change the character of EDC as it was envisaged originally.

The belief was growing that the six EDC nations would not be able to work out a formula for acceptance of France's proposals.

Mitchell Receives Criticism

Even Democrats Blast Him for Suggesting Ike-Jones Friendship Basis for Contract

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he was astonished that the Democratic national chairman would try to link golfer Bobby Jones with administration decisions on a power plant in the TVA area.

The President told a news conference he knew when he got into politics that he would be subjected to some strange characters, as well as innuendos and allegations.

But, the President said, he was a little astonished that any kind of innuendo should be directed at a private citizen of the character and standing of Bob Jones.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell drew a blast from Republican senators and criticism from some members of his own party today for linking President Eisenhower's friendship for golfer Bobby Jones with a proposed power contract.

The Senate had scarcely convened when GOP Leader Knowledge of California teed off on Mitchell's intimation, in a speech last night, that Eisenhower was influenced by Jones to order a private power contract in the area served by Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA).

Knowledge told the Senate that if Mitchell had any criticism which indicates the contract is "illegal" or the result of "undue influence," he has a duty to present his facts to the Justice Department or the Senate-House Atomic Committee.

The Californian said he recognized the growing heat of this year's political campaign, but "I regret that it can't be kept on a level other than attacking the personal motives of the President of the United States."

Knowledge said it was regrettable that a statement made in the present troublesome times "which appears to me to cast reflections on the President of the United States and tends to break down the confidence of the people" in their chief executive.

Sen. Cooper (R-Ky.) noted that he had argued against the contract "with all the strength at my command" in Senate debate on the atomic bill. He said he still regretted that Eisenhower had ordered it made.

But Cooper said he was certain the President acted in what he thought were the best interests of the country and concluded: "I do not believe there is any truth at all in the statement made by the chairman of the Democratic party."

Off the Senate floor, Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) told a reporter that he feels Mitchell "carried guilt by association too far" in hitting at Eisenhower's contract order.

But Kefauver's colleague, Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.) said if a Democratic Senate were elected this fall, he will press for a probe of the contract matter.

Kefauver's and Gore's opinions pointed up an apparent division among Democrats as to the wisdom of directly attacking Eisenhower in the coming campaign season.

Another senator who asked to remain anonymous said criticism similar to Mitchell's had been included in a speech a Democratic senator planned to make during the Senate battle over the atomic energy bill, but was stricken out on the advice of other party members.

Kefauver said in an interview that while he believes Eisenhower was "dead wrong" about the power contract, he does not subscribe to Mitchell's implications. Kefauver and Gore have championed the TVA.

"I don't think Bobby Jones is the type of man who would use his personal influence in a matter of that sort and I wouldn't think that friendship would influence the President," Kefauver said. "That's carrying guilt by association too far."

Also indicating disagreement with Mitchell, Sen. George D. Gallagher (D-Iowa) said he had known Bobby Jones and his family back to his grandfather and he is not the kind of man who would undertake to influence the President, for whom he has the highest regard.

The new list, given the Communists at a meeting of the Military Armistice Commission, carries the names of 526 Americans, 50 from other U. N. nations and 2,234 South Koreans.

It includes men whom the Reds have admitted holding in China. The Reds insist that all Allied war prisoners who wanted to return home were repatriated last year.

Humans Become Guinea Pigs for Dog Diet

The veterinarians say now any canine from a fat Dachshund to a lard-laden Labrador Retriever can be streamlined in two weeks.

Fire Destroys Part Of Ancient Palace

KYOTO, Japan (AP)—Fire yesterday destroyed part of the ancient palace where Japan's emperors are crowned.

The flames burned up a 5,700 square foot section of the palace in 40 minutes. Some art treasures were destroyed.

The palace, a collection of wooden buildings, has burned down several times since it was built in 794, the last time in 1855.

The fire apparently was touched off by sparks from a nearby outdoor fireworks display.

2 Women Are Hurt In Five Car Pile Up

Accident On Monday Afternoon In Funeral Procession On 65

Two Sedalia women were injured about 3:30 p.m. Monday when five cars of a funeral procession rammed each other, front to back, in a pile-up that was caused when the front car was forced to stop unexpectedly.

Mrs. Tom Jamison and Mrs. Harley Wilson were taken to the Bothwell Hospital in a Ewing Ambulance.

They were X-rayed and, after finding there were no fractures, were released.

The cars were headed south on Highway 65, about seven miles south of Sedalia, when the lead car and the funeral coach pulled around a Highway Department mover that was operating at the side of the highway. The other cars started around and then the lead driver spotted an oncoming car and stopped suddenly.

Drivers of the next four cars were unable to stop and each hit the next car ahead. Drivers of the five cars, all of which were damaged, were: Mrs. Jamison, Mrs. Pearl Thurston of Sedalia, Mrs. Clara Avery of Kansas City, Ben Saunders of Dayton, O.

The funeral was that of Oscar Brown, and the procession was enroute to Warsaw for burial.

Woman Is Found Beaten To Death In Garden Ditch

BONNER SPRINGS, Kan. (AP)—Authorities today investigated the mystery slaying of 44-year-old Mrs. Henry Wagenknecht, whose nude body was found in a little ditch near her home shortly after midnight.

Sheriffs Deputies Ed Keyes and Frank Foster said the woman had been beaten to death. She had been bludgeoned with a piece of two-by-four.

When last seen by her husband and 14-year-old son, Mrs. Wagenknecht was resting on her bed, fully clothed. That was about 10:30 p.m.

She was wearing slacks and a blouse.

Wagenknecht told authorities she watched television until 11:30, then went to the bedroom and discovered her wife was missing. He searched the house called a neighbor, and police were called.

The body was found in the garden, about 150 feet from the house. Keyes said Mrs. Wagenknecht had not been criminally attacked. A purse containing $30 was still hanging on a doorknob where she apparently left it.

The body had been dragged through a window to the outside, authorities said.

Wagenknecht said he heard no noise while he watched television, and was at a loss to explain the slaying. He was taken into custody and held without charge. Prosecuting Attorney Donald Martin said the man would be given a lie detector test.

Barrage Balloon Dips Into Maryland, Rejoins Eisenhower Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP)—When old No. 7 took off for the stratosphere last night, everybody said it was gone for good.

But it turned out today they were wrong, for old No. 7 was back again on terra firma, none the worse for its wild flight.

No. 7 is that famous balloon which President Eisenhower and his supporters used in the 1952 campaign. It's a giant thing with the name "Ike," spread over its 30-foot rubber carcass.

The balloon was all dolled up for a celebration at the Hotel Statler last night, but a big gust of wind got it, wrested it away from eight struggling attendants and sent it sailing clear out of sight.

They said it would go so high it would burst. But something must have happened to it because it wound up on a highway in nearby Maryland this morning and a band of rescuers quickly tied it down.

Now, once again, it's the property of the Citizens for Eisenhower Committee.

AMMAN, Jordan. (AP)—Prime Minister Tewfik Pasha Abdul Huda suspended five weekly Jordan newspapers today for attacking his new government.

Senate Okays Bill Stripping Rights From Communist

Overrides Administration Objections By Voting to Make Membership a Crime; House Bill Would Not Punish Party Membership

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Overriding the expressed wishes of the administration, the Senate and House both approved a bill today that would outlaw the Communist party and make it a crime—subject to jail terms and a heavy fine—to belong to the party.

The Senate passed the measure, 81-1, lacking the provision to make party membership a crime to an earlier House-passed version of the anti-Communist legislation.

Then, in a surprise move, the House accepted the new Senate version, 208-100, by adopting a motion by Rep. Dies (D-Texas) to instruct House members of a House-Senate conference committee to accept amendments approved by the Senate earlier in the day.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today passed a bill to strip the Communist party of all its legal rights and override administration objections by voting to make membership in it a crime.

The bill, passed by the House yesterday in a form described as acceptable to the administration, also would deprive labor unions, found to be Communist-dominated, of any legal standing before the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB).

The Senate ignored administration opposition as it wrote into the bill, by a vote of 41-39, an amendment from Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) to make Communist party members subject to imprisonment and heavy fines.

The House-passed bill would not go so far. It would take away all the legal rights of the Communist party.

Humphrey, who introduced the Senate amendment, described the House measure as "powder puff legislation."

The bill now goes back to the House, where it faces an uncertain fate.

The final senate vote on the bill was 81-1 with Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) casting the lone "no."

The Senate also added six amendments to the labor union provision. In general, these amendments made it easier for the federal government to certify a union as "Communist-infiltrated."

Humphrey's amendment would make members of the Communist party subject to five years in jail and a $10,000 fine.

Humphrey had won Senate approval of his proposal 85-0 last week only to see it deleted by the House.

Republican leaders fighting the Humphrey amendment had said its adoption would kill the whole legislation.

The measure, speedily passed by the House 305-2 yesterday after GOP leaders had conferred with President Eisenhower, came up for debate in the Senate late last night with every prospect of quick approval.

But a stumbling block came into view when Sen. Butler (R-Md.), author of the part of the legislation forbidding Red-dominated unions the facilities of the National Labor Relations Board, offered six amendments to that section he described as "technical."

Sensors Humphrey (D-Minn.), Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and Lehman (D-Lib-NY) questioned that description. They said half the amendments made important changes and demanded that they be produced for study.

The President's antisubversive program went smoothly forward yesterday on another front when the Senate passed after brief debate a three-cornered measure, in slightly different form than a similar House bill, and sent it back to the House for anticipated quick approval.

This bill, tucked in the arsenal of new antisubversive weapons, asked by Eisenhower and passed in varying forms by both houses, is designed (1) to tighten and modernize present laws against sabotage, (2) provide a death penalty for peacetime espionage and (3) require registration of all persons trained in espionage or sabotage by a foreign government or foreign political party.

The communist party-outlawing bill made a surprise entry on the congressional scene Thursday when Humphrey offered it as a substitute for Butler's Communist-dominated unions measure. The senate wound up unanimously passing both as a single bill.

Administration objections were heard over the weekend that the measure—would have slapped heavy fines and jail sentences on individuals who are active Communists—would make martyrs out of the Reds and would upset other laws set up for national security.

After a White House meeting at which Atty. Gen. Brownell sat in, GOP leaders put through the House a revised version without the penalties against individuals. House Republican Leader Halleck of Indiana said Brownell preferred no legislation but would not oppose the bill, now up for Senate approval.

The bill says the Communist party shall not have any of the rights, privileges and immunities granted to lawful organizations, and it would lay down the same bar for successors of the present party. Rights removed would include the right to enter candidates for political office.

The measure also says nothing in it should be construed as a repealer of the Internal Security (McCarran) Act of 1950, under which the government has been trying to force registration of the Communist party. The case is still in the courts.

Sedalia Youth Barely Misses Death At Pool

Landon Smith Almost Drowns Monday At Liberty Park

Landon Smith, 15, narrowly escaped death from drowning while swimming at Liberty Park pool about 8:30 p.m. Monday.

Unconscious and his breathing stopped, he was pulled from the pool by the life guards who gave artificial respiration until breathing resumed. Then he was rushed to the Bothwell Hospital where, at noon Tuesday, he was said to be rational but still unconscious.

Landon had been swimming with other youths and was near one side of the pool when he went down. The others thought he was diving until it seemed he had been under an unusually long time. Then they called the life guards' attention to him and the guards went after him.

Duane Miller, Mike Weiser and Dick Stohr were the life guards on duty at the time and they were credited Monday, and repeatedly on Tuesday's for saving the young boy's life. They dragged him from the pool and stated administering artificial respiration Bill Turk, a bystander, gave them assistance.

Red Cross life saving training proved its value to the life guards as they knew what to do, and went into action with no loss of valuable time.

When the fire department arrived with the resuscitator, the boy was breathing again, and they decided that the use of their equipment would not be necessary. Dr. A. L. Lowe arrived on the scene, and continued treatment, pending the arrival of the Ewing Ambulance, which took the boy to the Bothwell Hospital.

A large crowd gathered at the pool and presented quite a problem to the officials, who were trying to get air circulated around the lad. However, after the seriousness of the accident was learned, they cooperated and moved back. The pool was cleared of all persons for the rest of the evening.

Among others who aided in the successful aid of the youth was the Bell Telephone Company, whose operator stood by the line, until they were sure that all emergency equipment had arrived, and matters were well in hand.

The boy is the son of Landon Smith, Sr., of West Sixth. Mr. Smith is an employee of the Tecon Construction Company.

Carnival Arrives And Begins To Set Up; Opens Friday

Opponents See Fast Approval Of Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vocal opponents of the administration's farm program planned last night to speedily secure congressional approval—perhaps today—of a hard-fought compromise.

Two Republican critics of flexible and lower price supports incorporated in the measure said they would speak against the compromise agreement they refused to sign yesterday. Both Sen. Young (ND) and Rep. Anderson (Minn.) however, conceded defeat.

Chairman Hope (R-Kan.) of the House Agriculture Committee planned to call up the compromise first in the House. Chairman Aiken (R-Vt.) of the Senate Agriculture Committee, a staunch supporter of the administration farm program, said he might ask Senate action first if there is a delay in the House.

The toughest battle in four days of Senate-House conferences on the omnibus farm bill was over dairy supports.

The final agreement sanctioned a level of 75 per cent of parity, a measure of farm prices calculated to reflect farm costs. Secretary of Agriculture Benson, citing millions of pounds of surplus on government hands, cut dairy prices to that point from a previous 90 per cent last April.

Conferees rejected a House-proposed floor of 80 per cent from Sept. 1 to next April, but picked up House provisions intended to drain the surplus. These would supply additional milk to school children and channel more butter and cheese to the armed forces and Veterans Administration.

Aiken said one Senate provision "is a slap at Secretary Benson and gives his enemies a chance to cry."

Senate Democrats with the aid of a few Republicans voted 45-44 to nullify Benson's limit of three straight terms on members of the farmer committees that administer federal programs. The clause was retained, even though Eisenhower had asked that it be eliminated.

The President also was rebuffed to some degree when conferees kept a ceiling of 110 per cent of parity on special incentive payments plus market prices on domestic wool and put a four-year limit on the wool program.

On the other side of the ledger, inclusion of these features largely satisfied Eisenhower requests. A flexible system of supports from 82½ to 90 per cent on cotton, wheat, corn, rice and peanuts. This had been okayed in both houses and wasn't a conference topic.

2. A special 2½-billion-dollar "set aside" of cotton, wheat, cottonseed and dairy products from the more than six billion dollars' worth of surplus farm products now in government hands. This set-aside could be used for foreign or domestic relief, barter or similar purposes that does not disrupt regular trade.

3. Elimination of a two-price system for wheat which the House had voted as a possible alternative to present supports and controls.

4. A two-year extension from Dec. 31 of the basic farm act under which supports and conservation payments are made.

The picture is one of a series to be shown at the Legion meetings.

Pettis County Post will be the host to the seventh district meeting to be held in Sedalia on Sunday, Sept. 12. Arrangements are being made to serve a light lunch to the visiting delegation.

Capitals Buzz As French Ask EDC Changes

LONDON (AP)—West Europe's capitals buzzed with furious government activity today as opposition mounted to French demands for amendment of the European army treaty.

Belief grew that the six nations lined up for the projected European Defense Community (EDC) would not be able to work out a formula of acceptable changes when their foreign ministers met in Brussels Thursday.

Officials in Washington feared the looming stalemate would kill the whole plan for the six-nation army, on which hinge present British-American plans for rearming West Germany within the Western defense framework.

Britain's ambassador to Paris, Sir Gladwyn Jebb, flew to London today for hurried conferences on the amendment proposals put forward earlier this week by French Premier Pierre Mendes-France. The scope of the revisions he demanded stunned the British government.

In Bonn, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer summoned his cabinet to an emergency session this afternoon. The prospect of further delay in the EDC treaty and its companion grant of near-sovereignty to West Germany posed a grave political crisis for the aged Adenauer, whose government already is under fire because of the scandal of Dr. Otto John's defection to the Communists.

Adenauer was described as dismayed at the French proposals, several of which would restrict German defense activity.

Another EDC nation, the Netherlands, already had voiced vigorous opposition to the French amendments. A statement yesterday from the Dutch foreign office said they aimed "at scooping out of the supranational elements of the treaty" and "one cannot see how agreement can be reached in Brussels on this basis."

Belgium's Premier Paul-Henri Spaak called his cabinet to meet tomorrow to discuss the French demands.

Italy, the other EDC nation which with France has not ratified the treaty, was reported similarly upset. Sources in Rome said Mendes-France's demands probably would sabotage Italian Premier Mario Scelba's plans to secure parliamentary approval of the army pact this fall.

Competitive Spirit Reigns At C. C. Kickoff Breakfast

There was real competitive spirit at the kickoff breakfast held Tuesday morning at 7:30 at the Bothwell Hotel to start the Chamber of Commerce membership drive, with three of the four teams having their entire teams on hand. The other one was just as confident, even if some of the team couldn't be at the breakfast, they would be working.

Planned as a baseball series the four captains were ready to go, each wearing a baseball cap. Abe Silverman, captain of the team called Abe's Fighting Irish, wore a green cap and his green tie with shamrocks helped to show the Irish fighting spirit he has acquired, adopted or picked up in some manner, perhaps from some of his Irish friends. Anyway, Abe has it on he started out today to prove it. It seemed that he has instilled it in his teammates, too, for he had to keep adding extra chairs at his table. The boys just kept arriving.

Vernon Rodick, captain of the Docks' Windmills, is a comparatively newcomer to town, but he is in there swinging all the time. He got up to shake hands with all his teammates as they came in, and there seemed to be real cooperation among them all.

Mrs. Marjorie Garanson, captain of Margie's GoGetters, has the football game Nov. 20th, the top team a complimentary dinner, and donated by interested Chamber of Commerce members will be special awards for the most one base hits, most two base hits, most three base hits, most home runs and the highest point players.

Shot talks were made by Ken Miller, director of the membership division, Claude L. Boul, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Chester A. Brown, executive manager.

During the time that the teams were at breakfast they were busy selecting names of people on whom they were going to call and were eager to get started on the game. And so after all instructions had been given out, the group went out to play ball. The ball series which will end at 5 p.m. Wednesday was under way.

UN Will Send Bigger Bill To Moscow

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. is getting ready to send Moscow a bigger bill for operating expenses next year—all because the Russians made everything at home sound so prosperous.

For the fifth straight year, the U.N. Committee on Contributions, which recommends the scale of assessments, is expected to step up the financial support it asks from the Soviet Union, the Soviet Ukraine and White Russia.

The American taxpayer can expect to pay the same 33.33 per cent assessment reached this year after a steady decline from the top of 39.89 levied in 1946.

The United States already has paid in 1954 assessment of $13,765,290. The Russians usually pay in October.

The Committee on Contributions began work yesterday on the assessments the General Assembly will levy this fall on the 60 U.N. members for running the international organization during 1955. The assessments this year totaled $41,300,000.

Even before the committee met, there was a movement to step up the Russian assessment. When the Russians howled against this in these pre-meeting conferences, other delegates calmly replied that the Russians had only themselves to blame. The Soviets were told that their representatives and their press had given such glowing accounts of life and prosperity in the Soviet Union that Moscow could not escape a bigger U.N. bill.

Bride-to-Be Given Shower

Miss Ann Turner, Knob Noster, gave a miscellaneous shower at her home Saturday evening honoring Miss Patsy Ann Anderson, Knob Noster, who will be married Sunday, Aug. 29, to Rev. William Richard Riley.

The color scheme was green and silver. There was a dark green cloth on the dining table with a parasol of light green, trimmed in silver ribbon, and the gifts hanging from the end of the streamers.

Garden flowers decorated the rooms. Favors were heart shaped nut cups.

Following the opening of gifts, various games were played. Miss Turner, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Edna Turner, served refreshments of punch and individual cakes to the following guests: Miss Anderson, her mother Mrs. Ralph Anderson, Misses Shirley Benz, Theima Chalfant, Jean Logan, Sue Richeson, Wanda and Wilma Lyle, Gloria Howerton, Knob Noster; Miss Leslie Hook, Warrensburg; and Mrs. W. D. Blaylock, Kansas City.

Moore Gives Up His State Auto Driver's License

ST. LOUIS —Robert H. (Hot Rod) Moore, convicted of 24 traffic violations since 1948, has voluntarily surrendered his state automobile driver's license to Director of Revenue M. E. Morris.

The 23-year-old St. Louisan enclosed the license, which does not expire until Dec. 8, 1955, in a registered letter to Morris in Jefferson City last night.

Moore, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Harry G. Moore, said in his letter he felt he was "in the best interest of my family and all concerned" and asked Morris to "re-move my name from your records as a licensed operator of a motor vehicle."

Morris has charge of administering the state driver's license law. Moore's attorney, Henry G. Morris, also enclosed a letter to the state official asking him to acknowledge receipt of the license and advise him of action taken.

Some young guys show off on the dance floor or the football field," Moore told a reporter. "I showed off in a car." He said he was not going to drive "for a year or two" and said by that time expected to "have a different attitude."

Moore's appeal from a 370-day workhouse sentence and $2,500 fine in St. Louis is pending in the Cole County Circuit Court at Jefferson City. Appeals from three other convictions also are pending.

His action followed announcements by Attorney General John M. Dalton that his office was trying to find some legal way to get Moore off the streets and requests from St. Louis officials that the state driver's license law be tightened.

Gloria Makes Long-Awaited Stage Debut to Win Cheers

MOUNTAINHOME, Pa. —Gloria Vanderbilt Stokowski made her long-awaited stage debut here last night, overcoming an obvious nervousness to win the cheers of a full house for her gallant portrayal of a princess in Ferend Molnar's romantic fable "The Swan."

In so doing, the tall, brunette, 30-year-old wife of conductor Leopold Stokowski and mother of two children fulfilled a driving ambition. Known chiefly in an artistic way for her painting, she had determined to find out what she could do in the theater.

As she put it before first night curtain time at the Pocono Playhouse in this eastern Pennsylvania resort country:

"If I can't act, I want to know it—and now. But if I can act, I want to develop another side of my career."

To this test she brought no actual acting experience other than

Lone Lady Makes Eloquent Plea For Hawaiian Statehood

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — It was a cool June Saturday in Washington. Joe Farrington, longtime Hawaiian delegate to the Congress of the United States, came into his office and announced to his staff: "It's too nice a day to answer mail. Go on out and enjoy yourselves. I'll be busy talking to Congressmen, and I won't need you."

Then patiently he went the rounds of seven members of the House rules committee. He was trying to persuade them to help fulfill his life's greatest ambition—making Hawaii the 49th state of the union.

The seven members of the Rules committee held the key to Hawaiian statehood. For the statehood bill was bottled up in that committee waiting for a joint conference with the Senate. It had been bottled up for months, all because the Republican leadership didn't want the bill out.

So Joe Farrington plodded from office to office trying to persuade key members of the Rules committee to permit Hawaiian statehood to come up for action. And having spent all Saturday morning calling on Congressman, Joe Farrington came back to his office after lunch, sat down at his desk, tired and discouraged, and quietly passed away.

Earlier that winter, Mrs. Farrington, knowing Joe had a weak heart and a burning ambition, had told friends: "If Joe doesn't get statehood this session, I'm afraid it will kill him."

Plea To Ike

Two months passed. In the interim, Mrs. Farrington was overwhelmingly elected by Hawaiians to fill her husband's shoes and came back to Washington for the closing days of Congress.

She knew that the statehood bill was deadlocked, perhaps hopelessly, first because the Republicans had broken their pledge of admitting both Alaska and Hawaii as states simultaneously; second because the Democrats refused to act on Hawaiian statehood unless Alaska got equal treatment; also she knew that Eisenhower was flatly opposed to Alaska.

But finally she knew that nothing could better serve as a memorial to her dead husband than action on Hawaii now. So she went to see President Eisenhower.

He was most cordial. But among other things he said:

"I am opposed to having a little group of people down in the southern end of Alaska controlling the rest of a vast area that is so important to our defense."

"I know that you as a military commander are accustomed to figuring long-range objectives," countered Mrs. Farrington. "And you plan your tactics step-by-step to reach that objective."

"But," she interrupted herself, "Imagine my telling you, the President, what to do."

"You go right ahead," prompted the President.

"Well, did you ever figure," said Mrs. Farrington, "that a state can set aside a military reservation, and some of the northern parts of Alaska might be set aside as military reservations for defense purposes? We had some experience with military government in Hawaii during the war, and it's sometimes easier for a state to enact laws to defend itself than a territory."

A Lady's Persistence

Mrs. Farrington went on to plead for both Alaskan and Hawaiian statehood, knowing that they must be tied together to get them through Congress.

"All I want you to do," she concluded, "is to sell speaker Joe Martin and Charlie Halleck that they are to let the statehood bill out of the Rules committee so we can vote on it."

Finally Eisenhower asked her to outline the facts she had given him to his chief liaison man with Congress, Gen. Jerry Persons. This she did. And since Persons didn't take any notes, and since she was afraid he would forget some of the legal points she made regarding ways and means of sitting up military reservations for Pacific defense, Mrs. Farrington got a lawyer to draw up a careful memorandum over the week end and delivered it to the White House late Sunday evening.

She wanted the President to be prepared when he sat down with Speaker Martin and Halleck for their strategy conference Monday morning. The Washington Doublecross

Mrs. Farrington had been with her husband in Washington a long time. She knew how easy it is to pass the buck. She knew how the White House blames congressional leaders, and how Republican leaders blame the Democrats—and vice versa.

She also knew that speaker Martin blamed ex-speaker Sam Rayburn for bottling up Hawaiian statehood, so she went to see both of them.

Martin at first was adamant. He said it was too late in the evening, that the rules committee wasn't going to meet anymore.

"The committee can't meet just to vote on one bill," he said when Mrs. Farrington asked that it be called to act on Hawaiian statehood. "Every other congressman with a bill in the rules committee would be clamoring to have his taken up too."

Ex-Speaker Sam Rayburn was a bit more hopeful. He turned his Texas charm on Mrs. Farrington, and she turned her feminine charm on him.

He argued that he was not leading the congress. She argued that all the Democrats listened to him, and quite a few Republicans. Finally she got a promise that if she could switch some votes on the rules committee and get the Hawaiian bill unbottled, he wouldn't oppose her.

Mrs. Farrington is still wearing out shoe-leather on Capitol corridors, still using her charm on callous congressional leaders. She knows she may not get anywhere. She knows that only a few priceless days, even hours, remain before congress adjourns. But she is still trying desperately to continue where her husband left off when he came back to his office after interviewing members of the rules committee, sat down at his desk, tired and discouraged, and quietly joined his maker.

Chronic Fatigue Deserves Increased Medical Study

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

Chronic fatigue is one of the most common complaints in modern society. Sometimes excessive work for too long a period, lack of sleep, dietary indiscretions, or a similar explanation is at hand. In such cases the remedy lies in correcting the cause—or at least not doing it again.

This kind of fatigue, however, is not much of a problem. The tired feeling which is chronic and persistent and the cause of which cannot be easily identified is much more serious.

This type of fatigue is particularly common among housewives, many of whom are constantly exceeding their strength. The strain of home and children cannot be pinned down to any one event, nor is it easy to remedy—after all, what can one do about it?

Sometimes a definite disease is responsible. A slight anemia, for example, can and does produce a lack of customary energy. Any chronic infection or most any disturbed bodily function is also likely to produce that tired feeling.

Of course, if a definite disease condition can be identified, it can usually be remedied. This is the first step in combatting fatigue. Should nothing be found, then it becomes necessary to analyze and study various other factors.

The proper balance between work, recreation and sleep has to be worked out. Change of occupation is not often recommended because it usually is not possible.

The adoption of a balanced diet with plenty of vitamins is beneficial when the abnormal fatigue is at least partly due to faulty diet. Stimulating drugs are dangerous and should not be used unless under the advice of a physician.

An increasing interest in study of the problem of fatigue is encouraging. Last year, for example, a symposium in the nature of an international conference was held in England on this subject. Also a study from the University of Oregon Medical School brought out some important points.

Some persons, the study showed, suffer from "tension states" which produce fatigue. People in this group are often in good physical health but complain of cold perspiration, tightness of the neck muscles, palpitation of the heart, dry mouth, anxiety and like signs. Under such circumstances, the fatigue appears to be a complication of the prolonged tension.

It is not easy to sufficiently change a person under such tension states to abolish the fatigue, but it can be done if he or she learns to understand it and embarks on a different mode of living. Training in physical and muscular relaxation also helps.

If Your Mate Is Reluctant

To Step Out—Find Out WHY

By Ruth Miller

The wife who dismisses her husband's grumbling whenever the two are invited out for an evening with, "Jim just doesn't like parties," is making a big mistake.

She ought to be trying to find out WHY he doesn't like sharing a social life with her.

Maybe he feels ill at ease when they are out in company. If that is his reason for preferring to stay at home, there is a lot a wife can do to draw her husband into conversations, to put him in a good light, to quietly help him overcome his shyness.

Perhaps he is downright bored with seeing the same people over and over. If so, the wife can get busy adding new friends to old.

Perhaps, without realizing that she is doing it, she does all the talking for both of them. Silent husbands of overly-talkative wives rarely seem to be having fun at parties.

Avoid Reharsing Party

Perhaps, it is not the party her husband dreads—but the way his wife will hash it over on the way home. Most men don't go for a rehars of a party and a critical analysis of all the guests.

The wife who feels she must rehars a party would be wise to wait until the morning after and tear the evening apart with a woman friend—rather than with her husband.

Perhaps, the husband has learned to his sorrow that his wife always comes home from a party a little bit envious of the other women or their possessions.

No husband wants to hear his wife tell how she could entertain as well as Mrs. Jones, if she had her home or her servants or didn't have to pinch pennies.

Nor does any husband relish hearing his wife talk enviously of the kind of clothes some other woman has that she can't afford.

Any wife whose husband never wants to take her anywhere ought to get busy trying to figure out WHY.

Got His Number

WASHINGTON—President Syngman Rhee of Korea, invited to Washington by President Eisenhower, had several run-ins with Alger Hiss during World War II, according to Dr. You Chan Yang, Korean ambassador to the United States.

Rhee was in Washington then, trying to stir up interest in postwar Korean independence. He tried to get the State Department to approve sending him to Korea so he could lead a revolt against the Japanese.

"Many times he was unable to see the division chiefs," says Ambassador Yang. "He had to be content with the cold and negative intellectual arrogance of a young man—now a number in a penitentiary—but then known as Alger Hiss. He would listen with detached indifference to the pleas of a leader who had suffered exile, imprisonment and torture in behalf of the rights of man."

Dr. Yang told this story in a recent speech at the Warren R. Austin Institute of World Understanding at University of Vermont. Dr. Yang also told another story about President Rhee.

On one occasion Rhee had to jump into a spare coffin to save his skin. He was escaping to China after a futile attempt to start a Korean revolution in 1919. On the way to China his ship docked at a Japanese port. To avoid arrest, Rhee occupied a coffin alongside dead Chinese being returned to their homeland for burial. A trusted lieutenant, now Col. Ben C. Limb, Korean ambassador to the UN, stood guard over him in the ship's hold.

Quitting—Ah, Pardon—Starting Whistle!

The World Today—Senators Hurry to Go Home

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — The Senate, called the most deliberative body in the world, has been anything but deliberative on some major legislation just because it's in a hurry to go home this week.

The Senate took its own good time most of this year. It spent weeks, for instance, debating before defeating a proposal by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) for a constitutional amendment to restrict treaty-making powers.

It wasn't unusual. The Senate normally dawdles for months while its committees hold hearings on the bills finally drawn for action by the full Senate.

The haste to get home showed up startlingly last Thursday when Sen. Butler (R-Md) came up with a bill to deprive Communists-infiltrated unions of government help or recognition.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) was one of the Senate Democrats who protested. And Humphrey suddenly produced a blockbuster, an amendment to Butler's bill which all but hid it from view.

He suggested outlawing the Communist party. This was exactly what the Eisenhower administration didn't want. It had said so long ago. The government might have to spend years in legal argument for the law only to see it thrown out by the Supreme Court as unconstitutional.

Besides, the kind of law Humphrey proposed might cut across and wreck other anti-subversive laws which the government was using against the Communists.

It might seem a measure so far-reaching as Humphrey's would require the most careful preparation and wording by a committee and its lawyers. But no committee had prepared it. Humphrey produced it himself.

But the Senate, Democrats and Republicans alike, voted for it 85-0. It has been suggested the senators may have been aware this is an election year for many, and a politician can't be unpopular voting against communism.

The House was in a mood to pass it too. This is also an election year for House members. But the Eisenhower administration, worried about the damage Humphrey's proposal might cause, got busy with House leaders.

They agreed to ram through a watered-down version of the Senate bill. This was done yesterday. The House members were able to register a vote against the Communist party without penalizing individual members.

The House measure would not make it a crime to be a Communist. It would deprive the party of any legal standing.

But the House bill kept the Senate's views on handling Communist-infiltrated unions. Last night, a few hours after House passage, Sen. Knowland of California, Senate leader of the Republicans, called it up. The bill had to go back for compromise or approval because it differed from the original Senate version.

Then Sen. Butler arose again. He wanted to make six changes in the House language on dealing with Communist-infiltrated unions.

But no senator had a copy of Butler's proposals. None had been printed or mimeographed. The Senate was being asked to vote on Butler's explanation without seeing what was being voted on. When Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) protested that the Senate at least ought to wait till today, when everyone could see in print the House bill and Butler's proposed changes, Sen. Knowland agreed. It was to be voted on today after some hours of debate.

Meanwhile, the Senate rammed through last night an omnibus anti-subversion bill which may hold implications undreamed of by the senators who voted for it. It's a complicated bill. It provides death for peacetime spying, tightens sabotage laws and requires people trained in spying to register with the government.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) was chosen by the Republicans to steer it through. But he was less than completely informed on the bill he was explaining. Under questioning by Humphrey, he conceded he didn't know whether a House or Senate committee had held hearings on it.

From others he learned a House committee had held hearings, before the House approved it, but that there had been no Senate hearings. Humphrey protested at this haste. This, he said, was a "belated effort" by the Republicans "to make a legislative record."

Sen. Case, South Dakota Republican, promptly reminded Humphrey no committee had approved the bill he had so hastily offered last Thursday to outlaw the Communist party.

Muddy Research
CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (P) — Scientists here are spending a lot of time playing with mud. They must know the consistency and strength of the underwater soil before construction starts on the week's vacation tour of a four-mile-long tunnel under the Potomac River, from Hampton to Willoughby. The Virginia Council of Highway Investigation and Research is doing the checkup for the 54 million dollar project. Mud is being brought up from holes as deep as 200 feet for the study.

THE STORY: After telling a stagecoach robbery in Turkey Creek, Wex Tancred, who goes by the name of John Bailey, gets a job as a printer in the cattle town of Sage City. Luke Miller, who runs the paper, doesn't know that "Bailey" is Wex Tancred, the man who shot the "Robin Hood" outlaw, Sam Older.

TANCRED heard a burst of gunfire on South Street. "That's what I'm fighting," said Luke Miller.

"You mean there are people who approve of that?" "Jacob Fugger approves of it. He approves of anything the Texas men want to do."

"I saw Fugger's name on a store," Tancred said. "There's a lot of stores you didn't see it on," Miller exclaimed. "Places he owns or has an interest in. Fugger's our local tycoon, in addition to being the mayor of Sage City. In other words, he runs the town. That's why I'm carrying $300 worth of advertising instead of $300. And it's also the reason I'm doing $20 worth of job printing a week. And that's why I can't pay you more than $20 a week."

"I don't see how you can afford to pay even that much."

"Well, there's some money comes in from subscriptions and sales of the paper. People like the Star, even if Fugger doesn't."

Miller looked at Tancred. "When do I start?"

"Right now, if you want to. We go to press tomorrow. Move in."

"He turned and called to the elderly printer, 'Mose, this is our new man, Mr. Bailey.'"

"John Bailey," Tancred said, quickly.

"John Bailey, Mose Hudkins." Tancred shook hands with the old printer. "A cousin of mine has a shop back in Sterling, Ill. But we just don't have the room."

And during the cattle season it's named Bailey working for him a couple of years ago. Relation?"

Tancred shook his head. "I never worked in Sterling."

"This man's name wasn't John, as I recall. Thought you might be related to him."

"I have no relatives in the printing business."

"I've got one," declared Miller. "My wife. She's been helping out on Tuesdays and Wednesdays. That reminds me, Bailey, you'll need a place to live."

"I checked in at the hotel."

"You won't get much sleep there. Not with the Texas men in town."

"The proprietor wants my room tomorrow. A special guest, Mr. Hong Kong Smith."

MILLER grimaced. "The grand Mr. Hong Kong Smith! So, he's to be with us again. Brings up a half-dozen herds every season, but he doesn't come with the herds himself. Too rough for him. Takes a boat to New Orleans, then a steamer up the river to St. Louis and then here by way of the Kansas & Western. He brings northern gold to Texas. Pays $5 per steer on the hoof and sells it here in Kansas for $30."

"Odd name for a cattleman," Tancred observed.

"He was a clipper-ship man before the war. Made a pile trading with the Orient. At least that's the story he's spread about himself. My personal opinion is that he made his money running slaves from Africa." Miller drew in a deep breath.

"If you have no objection," Tancred said, "I could put up a cot here in the shop."

"I've no objection. I only wish I could put you up at the house. But we just don't have the room."

And during the cattle season it's almost impossible to find a place in town. I'll stop in at the Boston Store this afternoon and have them send over a cot and some blankets."

"That's fine, Mr. Miller. And now I might as well get familiar with the typecases."

"You'll find copy on the hooks. The big one's straight matter, the small one ads."

Tancred took off his coat, hung it on a nail and walked to the typecases. Without hesitation he reached for a sheet of copy on the smaller hook. Miller, watching covertly, smiled.

TANCRED left the newspaper shop a little after 6 and went to his hotel where he washed up. Coming down from his room he stood in front of the hotel a few minutes, then crossed the street to the Bon Ton restaurant and had a supper of fried steak and potatoes.

When he came out the street was more crowded than it had been during the day. More horses were tied to the hitchrails.

Up the street a cowboy yipped and emptied his revolver. The shooting was repeated by someone at the other end of the street.

The tinkly music of a piano from the Texas Saloon next door caught his attention and on a sudden impulse he turned and entered.

Tancred found a spot at the far end of the bar and ordered a glass of beer from one of the four bartenders.

Tancred drank some of his beer, but he didn't taste it. A girl began singing and he turned and looked toward the stage at the rear of the room.

The ballad was the saga of Sam Older.

Odds and Ends

A WOMAN called a friend and told her she would be over on Saturday afternoon. A little later she arrived at the home and when she had been there a few minutes and didn't see anything of the woman's daughter, she asked where she was.

"Oh, she's at work," said the mother.

"Does she work on Sunday?" queried the surprised woman.

"No," said the mother, "but this is Saturday."

"Saturday — I thought it was Sunday. I'll run along then. I'll bet you have work to do," the woman said.

"You just stay right where you are," said the hostess. "I don't have one thing to do. Everything I was going to do today is already done."

"Well," said the woman, "I thought sure it was Sunday. I wrote a couple of letters and dated them Sunday. I told the people I was writing to that it was Sunday. But I wasn't going to church this morning. Why," she laughed, "I even took my bath last night because I thought it was Saturday night."

The couple was getting ready to go to a show in a neighboring town and after the woman had on her dress she just couldn't find the belt to it. She looked everywhere and her husband joined the search because time was getting short. When the belt just couldn't be found she substituted a white leather belt which didn't do much for the looks of the dress, but at least it was a belt.

They saw a lot of people they knew, many of their own neighbors and enjoyed the show immensely.

When they returned home, she started to get out of the car, the wind was blowing pretty hard and, feeling something blow against her hand, she thought her handkerchief had blown out of her pocket. It was too dark to see, but when she caught it, she found that instead of her hankie it was the ends of the belt of her dress. In her mad scramble to get ready for the show she had completely forgotten that she had tacked the belt to the back of the dress and she had been going around all evening with two belts on, a white one around her waist, one of the dress material hanging down from the waist in the back.

Businesses Count Gains By Congress

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Businessmen are counting on some solid gains today — along with some dashed hopes — dealt this year by a Congress widely considered to be "more business-minded" than its predecessors.

Legislation of prime interest to business lies in these fields: taxation, government economy, defense spending, public power, atomic energy, foreign trade, housing and the St. Lawrence seaway.

High on the plus side from the point of view of business is the tax reform law aimed at encouraging industrial expansion and production, and thus making jobs and swelling payrolls.

But Congress ignored industry's plea that the 52 per cent corporate income tax rate be allowed to drop to 47 per cent on schedule, and instead extended the higher rate until next April. This will take more tax money from business in the next few months than companies can save through other provisions in the tax reform measure. These cover depreciation allowances, research spending and the carry-back of losses for tax purposes.

Nor did exemption of dividends from individual income taxes go as far as business had first hoped. But industry feels that the token exemptions should lead to wider purchasing of corporate stocks by the citizenry.

Congress sliced some excise taxes and helped move goods involved — classed as luxuries or semi-luxuries — off store shelves, and helped consumers save on various services, recreation and entertainment charges. Manufacturers are hoping for still further cuts in the next session.

Economy moves in Congress are generally applauded. But some are disappointed that economy measures still leave the federal budget unbalanced and the federal debt due to rise — with all its implications of inflation.

Private power leaders count a number of victories. Congress laid aside public power projects to give private firms or local authorities the go-ahead signal.

Businessmen eager to get into the infant atomic power field are counting on a partial victory — not as much right to develop nuclear fission plants through private enterprise as many want, but at least a beginning despite all the built-in restrictions.

Franchot Tone Takes $17,500 In Suit Against Insurance Firm

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Franchot Tone's attorneys say he has settled for $17,500 the $65,666.66 suit he brought against Lloyds of London for injuries he suffered in his celebrated 1951 fight with another actor, Tom Neal, over the affections of Barbara Payton.

Tone went to the hospital for repairs to his face, but if he lost the fight he won the girl—at least temporarily. Tone later divorced her and she renewed her interest in Neal.

Tone's suit contended his injuries were covered by his $100,000 Lloyd's policy. But the insurance company maintained Tone provoked the fight and exposed himself to danger "while in a state of intoxication."

Eisenhowers Register For Fall Election

NEW YORK (AP) — President and Mrs. Eisenhower arrived by plane from Washington today to register as voters for the fall elections.

The presidential plane, Columbine, landed at LaGuardia Airport at 9:20 a.m. (EDT).

Mrs. Eisenhower was first to step from the plane. The President, just a step back, waved his hat to news photographers.

Mrs. Eisenhower wore a gray suit, a red full-length coat and a small black off-the-face hat.

The President and his wife then entered a limousine and with 30 motorcycles leading the way, left for downtown Manhattan.

The president was due to return to Washington in time for a news conference at 1 p.m. (CST).

Jerry Colonna Finds Aussie Crowds Are the Greatest

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — American entertainers can find a gold mine Down Under, reports Jerry Colonna, just back from a tour of Australia.

"They're fabulous," said the zany comic, speaking of the Australian fans. "They're 100 per cent the citizenry."

more responsive than a GI audience, if you can imagine that. "American audiences are the toughest. No matter who you are, they'll sit out there and do nothing until you've proved yourself. A little better in England are a little better. They are unresponsive at first. But once they get to like you, you're in. You can do no wrong. "Australians are wild from the start. I've never heard such a reaction. They'll listen to your whole routine and then want more."

"At one show I had to explain that other entertainers were waiting to go. But they yelled, 'Do it again!' They wanted me to do my whole act all over again!"

I saw brush-faced Colonna at his comfortable Laurel Canyon home upon his return. Offstage he is far different from the wacky character he long played with Bob Hope. He is quiet, soft-spoken and almost shy. The pop-eyed extrovert with the sirenlike voice is strictly a stage character.

Jerry went to Australia with a show that included Attlee Shaw, Ella Fitzgerald and Buddy Rich. They played three days in Sydney, two in Melbourne and one in Brisbane. It was an experiment by a group of promoters.

"We played in fight arenas with capacities up to 11,000," the comedian reported. "The houses were about seven-eighths full. Our only poor houses were the first day in Sydney, when Ella couldn't appear because of a deadly in Honolulu."

The tour cost $90,000 and brought in around $79,000. But the promoters were heartened by the results, having spent lavishly to see if such tours were practical. They are convinced and plan to send regular shows, perhaps touching other countries. The next troupe is expected to include Johnny Ray, Peggy Ryan, Ray McDonald and comic Dave Barry.

Power and Water Are Exhausted, Pickets Continue

MOUNTAIN PINE, Ark. (AP) — The only signs of life today in this lumber camp hamlet near Hot Springs, Ark., are weary, red-eyed pickets.

Mountain Pine, a town of 2,000, was built around the Dierks Lumber and Coal Co. plant here. Two weeks ago the workers—the life line of the town—went on strike, demanding a check-off system, revised work schedules, and a welfare plan financed by the company.

Indirectly because of the strike, the town is without water and electricity. Diesel fuel to operate the company's power plant was exhausted Sunday, and electricity and water was shut down.

The company tried to send Arkansas Power & Light Co. crews into Mountain Pine to restore electric and water facilities, but the union would not allow the crews to cross the picket line.

The union will not let AP&L restore the electricity in the area unless the company agrees in writing not to use the power to operate the plant.

Peter Joers, vice president of Dierks Lumber and Coal Co., said the union refused permission for company crews to move a truck full of diesel fuel into the area. J. H. Sargent, president of the Dierks local of CIO Woodworkers of America, said the union offered to help move the tank car.

Meanwhile, the dusty pickets walk their lines, the people bathe in nearby creeks, and use candles and kerosene lamps for light.

Recommend Adding 19 Counties to List For Drouth Aid

COLUMBIA (AP) — Addition of 19 Missouri counties to the list of 76 now in the drought disaster area and eligible for federal farm aid has been recommended by the State Drought Committee.

The 19 are Worth, Gentry, Harrison, Mercer, Putnam, Sullivan, Adair, Grundy, Iron, Reynolds, Madison, Bollinger, Wayne, Butler, Ripley, Carter, Shannon, Oregon and Howell.

The committee's recommendation to Gov. Donnelly must be approved by President Eisenhower before the counties qualify.

Laguna Beach Group Will Appear In Movie

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A group of townspeople who portray the Last Supper in the annual Laguna Beach Festival of the Arts have been signed to present their tableau in a motion picture.

They will appear in "The Silver Chalice" at Warner Bros. studios in Burbank, producer-director Victor Saville said. They will bring their own costumes.

New Madrid County Sheriff R. H. Kanes said the boy was found shot yesterday on the family's farm home near Lilbourn.

Last In Series on Tax Bill—

We Get Month Longer to File Returns, Some Get Out of Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Everybody gets another month to work over his income tax returns and about one million taxpayers who have been required to file advance estimates of income are now relieved of that chore.

These are two important administrative changes included in the big tax revision act recently passed by Congress.

One change that affects all individual taxpayers: the deadline for final returns is shifted from the traditional March 15 to April 15. This change goes into effect when you file your returns next spring.

Taxpayers over 65 no longer are required to file returns if their income is $1,200 or less. Under the old law, they were supposed to file a return if they made more than $600.

Dr. Shepard Free Today Under Bond

CLEVELAND (AP) — Dr. Samuel H. Shepard was back at his hospital practice today while police complained about his day-old freedom and the grand jury swung into the second day of a hearing that could end it.

Shepard, 30, shed his prison denims yesterday after Common Pleas Judge William E. Thomas freed him on $50,000 bond. The handsome, athletic osteopath is accused of clubbing to death his 31-year-old pregnant wife Marilyn July 4.

While Shepard helped his brothers read X-ray films at the Bay View Hospital, a grand jury moved through a list of 16 witnesses called to give testimony on the first-degree murder charge against the prominent osteopath.

The country prosecution indicated the jury might begin deliberation today, and would have Shepard arrested immediately if an indictment is returned.

Authorities strongly protested Judge Thomas' action granting bail request and freeing Shepard, in view of the severity of the charges against him. Judge Thomas said evidence didn't warrant his refusing bond.

County Prosecutor Frank T. Cullinan said, "I never heard of it in my 22 years here."

Cleveland's detective chief, James E. McArthur, expressed "shock" at the judge's action and heatedly suggested that the city might pull out of the murder case and leave it to county or suburban Bay Village authorities.

McArthur said the investigation is just about complete anyway.

A preliminary hearing to present evidence that Shepard should be held was scheduled for yesterday, but the hearing was bypassed when the prosecution, seeking to keep Shepard's attorneys in the dark about its plans for presenting the case should it reach a trial, brought matters directly to the grand jury.

Congress Highlights . . .

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress drives toward adjournment as the House and Senate consider compromise anti-Communist, farm and atomic bills.

COMMUNIST — Passed overwhelmingly by the House, a bill to outlaw the Communist party and to strip Red-dominated labor unions of their legal protection is docketed for Senate action.

FARM — A bill that would carry out the Eisenhower program of flexible price supports for basic farm crops heads for final House and Senate action.

ATOMIC — The House remains as the only legislative hurdle for a bill that would permit limited exchange of atomic information with U. S. allies and would allow entry of private industry into the atomic field. The Senate last night approved, 59-17, a new compromise bill that would retain federal control of most atomic patents for another five years.

SOCIAL SECURITY — A Senate-House conference committee goes behind closed doors to seek a compromise on legislation to extend social security coverage and boost both the benefits and the taxes that support them.

to the date of the return and extending it throughout the entire year.

Under the old law, taxpayers with more than $100 income not subject to withholding had to file estimated returns if their income exceeded $400, plus $600 for each exemption.

Optimists Win LL City Title With Win Over JCs 3-2

Take 1st and 3rd Games In Playoff Series With Jaycees

The Optimists won the Little League City championship last night in a red hot ball game from the Jaycees 3 to 2. The championship game was tightly pitched and provided very interesting entertainment for the spectators as the little leaguers battled for the highest honor a Sedalia team can win. The victory was the second for the Optimists in the three game championship series after the Jaycees had won one also. The first game of the series went to the Optimist club 11 to 1 but the Jaycees buckled down in the second contest to win 3 to 1.

The American League won the Little League all star game 5 to 4 from the Nationals. The game was bitterly fought throughout and every 12 year old present saw action in their last appearance in Sedalia's Little League. Wertz, hurler for the winners, broke up the game—and won it—with a homer in the last of the fourth. Arnett was on base to score ahead of Wertz.

The Jaycees led most of the way in last night's game only to have the ever alert Optimist to snatch victory from them in the last two innings. The Jaycees opened the top half of the first inning with a run to take the lead 1 to 0 then increased their lead to 2 to 0 in the third and coasted along behind the fine pitching of Jimmy Mulcahey until the bottom of the fifth.

In that inning the Optimist erupted with two runs to tie the score in the bottom of the fifth. Dubby Wallace provided the big blow in the uprising with a double to drive in a run. Wallace had the only extra base hit in the game. The Jaycees failed to score in the top of the sixth, the last inning of the game, and it appeared as if the game might go into extra innings. However, the Optimists had different ideas on this and pushed across the winning tally in the bottom of the frame. Bobby Kelley started the rally off with a sharp single. He advanced to second base on an error. Then his teammate Spencer Fricke singled and Kelley advanced third with the winning run and the city championship for the Optimist.

After the game the Optimist were presented with the trophy for the championship. The National League all stars then took the field against the Americans in the battle of twelve year olds from each league.

The championship game was a tightly pitched affair with only a total of nine hits being made. The Optimists got six of these while the Jaycees collected only one. Dick Wertz the winning Optimist hurler pitched fine ball throughout going all the way for his second series victory. Mulcahey, the losing hurler, also went all the way for his Jaycees and pitched good ball. In the fielding both teams showed a tight defense with only a total of three errors being committed. Two of them were charged against the Jaycees while there was only one counted against the Optimist fielders.

Since Sedalia teams do not participate in any post season games this battle concluded the Little League season for '54.

In the 18-hole finals of the Sedalia Country Club junior championship Sunday afternoon Frank Reynolds eliminated Vic Van Dyne on the 11th hole of the match 9-7 for the first place trophy. Reynolds went two over par for the 11 holes as Van Dyne carded 11 over par.

This was the first tournament of its kind at the club as nine boys under 21 years of age competed. The first place trophy was donated by Lloyd R. Parker, chairman of the Country Club golf committee.

Believes Philly Syndicate Will Buy Athletics

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Harry Sytk appears increasingly confident his local syndicate will be successful in its bid to buy the Philadelphia Athletics American League baseball franchise.

Disclosing yesterday that the local offer for the club was 212 million dollars, Sytk said he believed "it's a certainty the A's will remain in Philadelphia . . . and I don't know of another local offer for the club."

The drugstore chain executive again expressed skepticism of reports that Chicago businessman Arnold Johnson had offered $12 million for the franchise. Johnson wants to move the A's to Kansas City.

Sytk also disclosed yesterday that his group's offer included retaining Roy Mack as executive vice president of the club, and Roy's father, 91-year-old Connie, as "honorary chairman because of his many years in baseball."

Johnson would be allowed to reinvest his money as a stockholder in the new corporation along with his father and brother.

Sytk said his group plans to spend two million dollars fixing up the ball park and improving the team.

He said one reason he is so certain the club will not be moved West is Washington and Baltimore's sure opposition to such a transfer.

Caddie Golfers Line Up for Ninth Tourney

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Fifty-one of the nation's top young caddie-golfers lined up at Ohio State University course today for the ninth annual National Caddie Assn. tournament. The prize is a $1,500 Professional Golfer's Assn. scholarship.

Most of them may still be thinking of Bob Toski's remarks yesterday when the "World" golf championship played at the fourth annual Celebrities Golf Tournament. Toski took the "World" title Sunday at Chicago.

Toski said he started out as a caddie at the age of 10, stayed with golf ever since and loves the profession. He told reporters he came from a large family where everyone had to help.

Toski was one of several sports and entertainment stars who appeared at the celebrities tournament to help raise money to be used as scholarship funds for the caddie meet which starts today and continues through Saturday.

After winning his championship at Chicago, Toski reportedly gave his caddy $1,500 of his $50,000 prize money.

Phils Show Colors When Meet Giants

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sportswriter
The Philadelphia Phils, last team outside the New York area to win a National League pennant, get a chance tonight to show whether they're playing favorites in the 1954 flag chase.

They move across the river from Ebbets Field to the Polo Grounds for the first of a three-game series with the slump-ridden New York Giants.

Last night the Phils did the Giants a big favor by thumping Brooklyn 9-6 when the Dodgers had a chance to pull within two percentage points of the lead. Instead, the Dodgers headed West to Pittsburgh trailing by a full game with 38 to play.

The Giants have beaten the Phils eight out of 10 times so far and they would like to think they could resume the pleasant pastime of winning after losing seven of the last eight to other clubs. Manager Leo Durocher has picked Johnny Antonelli (17-3) to attempt to halt the skid.

The Dodgers had won 12 out of 18 from the Phils up to last night, but they couldn't keep up the pressure even though they caught Robin Roberts on what must have been one of his wildest nights in the majors.

The Philadelphia righthander walked four men in the first inning and a total of six in the game. He was charged with a wild pitch and might have been charged with several more except for some acrobatic backstopping by Smokey Burgess. And the Dodgers banged eight solid hits, two of them homers by Pee Wee Reese and Gil Hodges.

Despite this, Brooklyn was ahead only once and didn't have a real chance after the fifth. The pitching staff fell apart. Rookie Bob Darnell, making his first start, couldn't get anybody out in the third. Clem Labine and Preacher Roe got roughed up in the fifth when the Phils put it out of reach on six hits and an error which produced five runs.

The Milwaukee Braves, the hottest team in the league, take their nine-game winning streak into a three-game series at home against the St. Louis Cardinals. Twice before this year the Braves have won 10 in a row. They trail by 3 1/2 after making up a dozen lengths since July 4.

Over in the American League the series to watch is at Cleveland where the Indians, winners of six in a row, play host to the Detroit Tigers. The Tigers were the last to beat them, exactly a week ago when Ned Garver shut them out on five hits.

Although they are well on their way to finishing with the worst average ever compiled by a fourth place team, the Tigers may yet have a lot to say about the American League pennant.

They quietly, but decisively, ended the Chicago White Sox' chances with a doubleheader sweep Sunday and they have 10 games left with Cleveland, including tonight.

The White Sox still have a mathematical chance, of course, since they have 36 games to play and are 1 1/2 behind. But it would take an unlikely collapse of both Cleveland and New York, plus a virtually unbroken winning streak of their own to put the Chicagoans back in serious contention.

Two teams have been eliminated from all pennant hope. Over the weekend the Baltimore Orioles and the Philadelphia Athletics fell more games behind the Indians than they have left to play.

While Cleveland is busy with the Tigers, the second place New York Yankees, three games back, expect to stretch their seven-game winning streak at the expense of the Athletics in a series opening tonight in Philadelphia.

The Phils-Dodgers game was the only action in the majors last night.

Faurot Believes Big 7 Will Keep Bowl Game Ban

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Don Faurot, University of Missouri athletic director and football coach, believes the Big Seven will hang onto its rule barring a member team from appearing two years in a row in the Orange Bowl.

Faurot, here as a coaching school speaker, said yesterday he favored the rule, and added: "Post-season games are fun, if you don't go every year. I know we went two years in a row to the Gator Bowl and the second year it was no good."

Reports have been heard that Orange Bowl officials are trying to get the Big Seven to permit Oklahoma to represent the conference in the 1955 New Year's Day game if the Oklahomans repeat, as they are favored to do, as conference champions.

Under present conference rules the second place team would play in the game.

Alex Kellner, left-handed pitcher for the Athletics, holds the dubious distinction of leading the American League in 1953 in wild pitches. He threw 10 wild ones.

"Look at Gus Schraeder and Emory Collins, two of the best in the business. They were at their peak in their middle and late forties," says the graying Tegtmeier.

F. Tegtmeier To Return For Big Car Race

Auto Race drivers are like good wine, they improve with age. That is the belief of 52-year-old Fritz Tegtmeier, "The Flying Dutchman" from Elgin, Ill.

Fritz is entered in the big car races at the Missouri State Fair on Sunday, August 22 and Saturday, August 23.

"Look at Gus Schraeder and Emory Collins, two of the best in the business. They were at their peak in their middle and late forties," says the graying Tegtmeier.

The "Dutchman," who is the oldest, active registered big car chauffeur in the International Motor Contest Association, said that he feels that each year he learns a little bit more. He'll be at the wheel of his own Krasek Special at the fair races.

Tegtmeier is considered to be one of the greatest drivers on the dirt track circuit at the present time. His years of experience (he has been driving since 1924) pay off when he gets the lead and a bigger car tries to pass him. It appears at times that he has a seventh sense that tells him exactly what the other driver is going to do and Fritz anticipates each move.

A pair of Wichita, Kansas, chauffeurs have also turned in entry papers to Ross Ewing, fair secretary. Cotton Musick will drive the Chet Wilson Special powered by a Ford racing conversion.

Charlie Lutjje, the other Kansan, is a fast-rising star in the big car ranks. He's handling the Offenhauser No. 9. Lutjje is a professional wrestler when he isn't at the wheel of a race car.

Time trials for both days of big car racing get underway at 1:30 p.m. with the first heat race getting the green flag at 2:30. On Sunday, August 22, the speedway-type cars will race on the fair-ground's half mile oval moving to the mile track on Saturday, August 23.

Robin Roberts Says Consistency Wins 20 Games a Season

BROOKLYN (AP)—"Consistency," says Robin Roberts, is how a man wins 20 baseball games in the major leagues.

The Philadelphia Phillies righthander is working on his fifth consecutive year as a 20-game winner. Last night he won No. 18 beating Brooklyn 9-6.

He walked four in the first inning and gave eight hits, but he hung on to finish his 21st game.

He's started 29 and lost 10 of these.

He looks like a cinch to get 20 this season.

"Obviously," Roberts said, "a man must be consistent to win 20 games. He must start often and pitch good ball consistently."

Roberts' holds this won-lost record over the past four seasons: 23-16, 28-7, 21-15, 20-11. Carl Hubbell, the New York Giants great left-hander of 15 years ago, was the last National League pitcher to win 20 games five years running.

Roberts made the majors after 11 games in the minors. He was a bonus boy out of Michigan State College.

Northside All Stars Postpone Ball Game

The Baseball game between the Northside All stars and the Warrensburg Giants, scheduled for tonight at Liberty Park, has been postponed until 8 p.m. Thursday.

Iola Ball Club Plays With Only 11 Men Available

IOLA, Kan., Aug. 17 (AP)—Some minor league clubs are having difficulties this season but can you find a team more bedraggled than the Iola Indians?

Iola is in the Class C Western Association. It started the baseball season on a cheerful note—a moderately successful advance ticket sale, optimistic fans, players talking about a first division spot.

But only 11 able-bodied players are still available. Illness, injuries and military service have taken the others.

The team is in seventh place. The league has assumed management of the club because of financial difficulties. The league filed a receivership action against former operators of the club and a receiver has been appointed.

The players lost their bus during the legal action and they now have to travel in their own cars.

Seven of Iola's 11 able-bodied players are pitchers. Last night the makeshift lineup included six pitchers—but only one was on the mound. The others were converted into infielders and outfielders.

But the team still has plenty of spirit. It won 2-1, beating second-place Topeka.

The pitcher who did the hurling in the previous night's game was a catcher last night. The regular catcher, Ralph Kennedy, is also the team manager—but he's on the casualty list. A split thumb may keep him from catching the remainder of the season.

Thieves recently broke into the clubhouse and carried off approximately $250 of the players' cash plus several watches and rings.

It's enough to drag out all the crying towels. Only trouble is there might not be enough to go around.

Just the other night after the players took their showers, somebody discovered they were short on towels. So, for some, it was two to a towel.

Baseball Analysts Believe Giants Dead, Braves to Win

NEW YORK (AP)—One returns to the workaday world after a period of earnest idleness to learn, with some surprise, that the vast majority of local baseball analysts consider the Giants to be dead, absolutely, and are equally certain that the Milwaukee Braves will be the National League entry in the World Series.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, say this city's deepest thinking savants, probably have enough bottom to make the Braves realize they are in a race, especially since young Billy Loos turned into a winning pitcher. But the Giants, they claim after a careful inspection, have made their run and now

Bishop Wants Church Stand For Freedom

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—A bishop from Communist Hungary declared today churches must not bow to any governmental system but should stand more resolutely as free instruments of God.

Mrs. J. W. Watts, 1605 South Carr, left Monday afternoon for Evanston, Ill., to attend the World Council of Churches.

Mrs. Watts' trip is sponsored by the members of the East Broadway Christian Church. "In the face of all opposing views either within or outside the church we proclaim this freedom of the church's way," Bishop John Peter told World Christian leaders.

He was the first delegate from behind the Iron Curtain on the program of the global assembly here of the World Council of Churches and the most controversial figure among them.

In a prepared speech brimming with Scripture quotations he asserted that the church is not bound up with any social system but serves independently its Lord on the road of human history.

He said: "I believe that not only in our country but everywhere in the world where there are Christians the churches ought to voice this independence of the church of all social systems more categorically and more resolutely than heretofore."

There are 20 representatives from Communist lands among 1,500 churchmen from 48 nations participating in the assembly. Their presence has been assailed by some outside groups, and Bishop Peter's role particularly has been questioned.

The State Department denied him permission to attend a world Presbyterian meeting in Princeton, N.J., two weeks ago but issued a visa restricting his trip to World Council activities.

Asked about rumors the bishop was a member of the Hungarian secret police, a State Department spokesman said at the time that information indicated Peter's visit should be limited.

However, a World Council leader, Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati, told newsmen there are no wraps on any delegates—Peter included—so far as what they do or say at the assembly.

Bishop Peter did not specifically praise or criticize the Hungarian regime but he did maintain conditions for health and growth of the church had improved in recent times.

He said God "having delivered us from many harmful bondage of the past," has kept his promise in the midst of the events of World War II and after it to reveal "his secret to his servants."

The Hungarian government, he said, in "guaranteeing the freedom of church life" provided for gradually decreasing state subsidies. He expressed gratification this was leading to church self-support.

"Our church which formerly relied on the income of apartment houses and landed estates lives now in an increasing measure by what its Lord decrees to sustain it," he said.

To the assembly, the greatest aggregation of Christian leadership ever gathered in America, the Hungarian bishop declared: "I may tell you that there is no pulpit in our churches which has failed to voice in the last months the grand message of the world-Christ—the hope of the world."

This is the central theme of the assembly.

Military Court Indicts Ex-Minister Fatemi For Overthrow Attempt

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—A military court today indicated ex-Foreign Minister Hossain Fatemi, former Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's right-hand man, on charges he plotted to overthrow the Shah.

Indicted on the same eight counts, with the pint-sized firebrand politician were Ali Shavagan, his closest political adviser, and Ahmad Razavi, former deputy speaker in the lower house of parliament (the Majlis). No trial date was set.

If found guilty the three face death by hanging, Mossadegh, however, was sentenced to three years in solitary confinement on similar charges.

In addition to the eight counts, Razavi was charged with violating the oath he took as a deputy to protect the Iranian constitution. He played a major role in jamming through legislation which converted Iran into a tight dictatorship under Mossadegh.

Fatemi, a chief instigator of the campaign to nationalize Iran's oil industry and drive the British out of the country, was a fugitive in hiding for eight months after the revolution which upset Mossadegh in August, 1953.

Hal Boyle's Column--

Danger to Civilization Comes With Excitement of Wars

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK. (AP)—Morning thoughts of an alley Aristotle on the start of a new week:

Monday is the limpest day in the average man's calendar. He returns to work tired from working at play.

We take the seven-day week for granted. Sometimes when I feel like criticizing both the Lord and mankind—even an upset stomach can stir these solitary thoughts of rebellion—I often harbor thoughts about the God of the Old Testament that would hardly please him.

Yet he labored to create the world in six days and rested from his vast efforts on the seventh day. That created the tradition of the seven-day week. The modern effort in most industries has been to try to get the working job done in five days.

But suppose the Lord had labored 99 days in a row to perfect our vineyard and rested on the 100th day. Could human beings have accepted this pattern of a 100-day week? Certainly not today. So maybe on Monday even seven days isn't as bad as it sometimes seems.

We claimed we are made in the image of God, but there are no quarrels in a Christian heaven. More often we imitate in our daily lives the old Greek and Roman gods, who squabbled among themselves in petty rivalries so much that today they would feel as much at home in Times Square as they did on Mount Olympus.

The victory of Christianity over the centuries is that it reflects the ordinary man's craving to reverse something more substantial, and less jealous, than he knows himself to be.

Peace has been the mouth-spoken dream of every generation of mankind under the sun. Yet the simplest way to create world unity would be an announcement that invaders from another planet had landed on earth.

New Floor Care Ends Waxing

One of the most difficult jobs of housekeeping is to keep linoleum and asphalt tile floors waxed and gleaming. Now, thanks to Glaxo, it is no longer necessary to wax and scrub. All you do is apply Glaxo with a brush about twice a year. It maintains a high lustre, non slip coating that seals out dirt. Glaxo dries in one hour and is water clear. It's cheaper than wax in the long run, besides saving a terrific amount of work, plus truly a beautiful floor. Glaxo is available at Dugan's Paint and Wallpaper.

Rotarians See Film on Carrier Fighter Operation

T. L. Yount, an electronic engineer with the McDowell Aircraft Corp., St. Louis, was the speaker at Rotary Club Monday noon at Bothwell Hotel.

Mr. Yount, a native Sedalian, and brother of Keith Yount, secretary of the Sedalia Rotary Club, gave an illustrated talk and showed a film entitled, "Carrier Operations from a Banshee Cockpit of a McDonnell Build 2H-3 Navy Fighter During Aircraft Operations."

Lawrence Barnett, program chairman, introduced the speaker.

The meeting was presided over by the president, W. B. Rich and invocation was by the Rev. D. Warren Neal. O. W. Wiley led the singing with Miss Lillian Fox at the piano.

Guests introduced by John Zulauf were: Mige Dawson, guest of Dick Snow; Frank Wich, Rock Island, Ill., guest of Richard Johnson; Claude Boul, guest of Lawrence Barnett; Jim Phillips, guest of John Zulauf; and Rotarian Ivan L. Peters, Warrensburg.

Swimmers Steer Clear Of Alligator Ditch

LILBOURN, Mo. (AP)—Swimmers are steering clear of a floodway ditch about six miles west of this New Madrid County town.

The reason: two fishermen caught a 39-inch alligator there. Conservation agent Lavon Penrod said yesterday Vernon Willis and Floyd Morris were fishing in the ditch recently when they saw what appeared to be a large catfish thrashing the water about 100 yards ahead of their boat.

Penrod said the two men steered their boat to the spot, saw the alligator, gassed it and pulled it into the boat. Penrod said the alligator is still alive.

Girl, 18, Is Wounded In Freak Accident

CONWAY, Mo. (AP)—An 18-year-old girl was reported in good condition today at Wallace Hospital in Lebanon after she was wounded in the right shoulder in a freak accident at home.

Willie Vincent was in the kitchen of her home yesterday, near Conway, when a .22 caliber rifle fell from a rack on the wall and discharged. The bullet struck her in the shoulder. The bullet was removed by hospital attendants.

Rival Store Makes Use Of Kroger Coupons

MILWAUKEE (AP)—In a promotion plan, the Kroger Co. supermarket in the new Bayshore shopping center mailed prospective customers coupons worth 25 cents when redeemed in merchandise. Soon the nearby Krambo Food store hung this banner in its window:

"We redeem all Kroger coupons at 30 cents."

Both stores say customer response to the coupons has been very good. Kroger will keep mailing out coupons and Krambo will go right on redeeming them at a nickle more.

HISTORIC RECORD SET BY Milder LOWER-PRICED OLD CROW!

Introduction of lighter, 86 Proof bottling as a companion to the world-famous 100 Proof Bottled in Bond brings forth unprecedented public demand!

Never before has a milder, lower proof bourbon of Old Crow's prestige and quality been offered at a popular price...and never before has the demand for any brand of whiskey climbed to such great heights so quickly. Your enthusiastic response to this introduction of 86 Proof Old Crow as a companion to the 100 Proof Bottled in Bond is a tribute to the fame and quality of a bourbon favored long ago by such illustrious men as Daniel Webster, Henry Clay and Mark Twain.

Old Crow has graced the tables and taverns of America for more than a century. It was carried west by pioneers in their wagon trains. In the east and throughout the land, political victories were toasted with James Crow's magnificent bourbon, and in the south it was deemed an essential ingredient to many a social gathering.

Today, the reception which you have accorded the lighter, milder, 86 Proof bottling of Old Crow proves again that Americans recognize in Old Crow, now as always, the finest Kentucky bourbon ever put into glass.

Permits Use of English In Catholic Ceremonies

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Archbishop Albert G. Meyer of Milwaukee told the National Catholic Liturgical Conference last night that the Holy See has granted permission for the English language to be used instead of Latin in certain Catholic ceremonies and blessings in this country.

Archbishop Meyer said he was authorized to announce English could henceforth be used in the sacraments of baptism, marriage and extreme unction and some 25 other ceremonies and blessings. The permission does not extend to the mass, he said.

Portuguese Troops Hold Goa's Fortress

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Portuguese troops were reported in full possession today of Goa's Tiracol fortress after a show of force dislodged the band of pro-Indian demonstrators who occupied the bastion Sunday.

Reports published in New Delhi newspapers made no mention of any casualties in the recapture of the fort yesterday but a report received in Bombay said one of the demonstrators was killed and another wounded.

The band of Goan nationalists had occupied the fort on Goa's northern frontier early Sunday after eight Portuguese police garrisoning it fled. Capture of Tiracol was the nationalists' only success in their widely publicized "liberation march" which fizzled down to only a token invasion of the Portuguese-Indian territories claimed by India.

All reports published in New Delhi said a Portuguese warship landed a party of 120 soldiers at Tiracol early yesterday and that the troops quickly regained the fort, hauled down the Indian flag, and rounded up the nationalists. One report described the warship as a "cruiser" and said it bombarded Tiracol for 90 minutes before the troops landed. As Portugal has no cruisers, it appeared likely the ship was one of the Portuguese frigates or sloops operating off Goa since the colony was threatened.

Another report said the warship fired only blanks to scare the demonstrators, who surrendered without further resistance. Still another account said the only firing was a salute salvo after the surrender.

The report received in Bombay, which is 250 miles north of Goa, said the casualties occurred when some of the nationalists resisted the lowering of the Indian flag they had raised over the fort 24 hours before.

The reports in the New Delhi newspapers said the troops found only 15 nationalists in Tiracol and that these were arrested "unharmful."

One report reaching the Indian capital from Goa, however, said as many as 150 demonstrators had entered the fort and the surrounding territory Sunday and that 70 to 75 of them were rounded up. From Nova Goa, the capital of Portuguese India, Associated Press Correspondent Harold K. Milks reported that about 150 persons were being detained as a result of the Sunday march into Goa, the largest of the Portuguese enclaves. Officials said all were Goan nationalists, though many had lived for years in India.

Nationalist leaders in Bombay originally had anticipated a march of thousands, but Nehru ordered border police to keep all non-Goans out.

Barrage Balloon Leaves Eisenhower Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP)—An old warrior of the 1952 Eisenhower presidential campaign has been blown clear out of the 1954 fight for Congress.

A gray barrage balloon with "Ike" lettered on its sides was floating quietly last night over a hotel where the Citizens for Eisenhower group was showing a new campaign movie.

Suddenly a windstorm blew up and "Old No. 7" was caught in gusts that reached 55 miles an hour.

Three workmen tried to hold the balloon in check, but they let go the mooring line when they were dragged to the edge of the hotel roof. When last seen, the balloon was mounting toward the stratosphere.

Staff Prepares Way For Ike's Vacation

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower's plane, the Columbine, arrived at Lowry Air Force Base yesterday with an advance contingent of nine White House staff members and 26 boxes of supplies.

The President's staff promptly began setting up offices at Lowry for Eisenhower's Colorado vacation. He and Mrs. Eisenhower are expected here as soon as Congress finishes with legislative chores.

Names J. C. Stewart As Capitol Architect

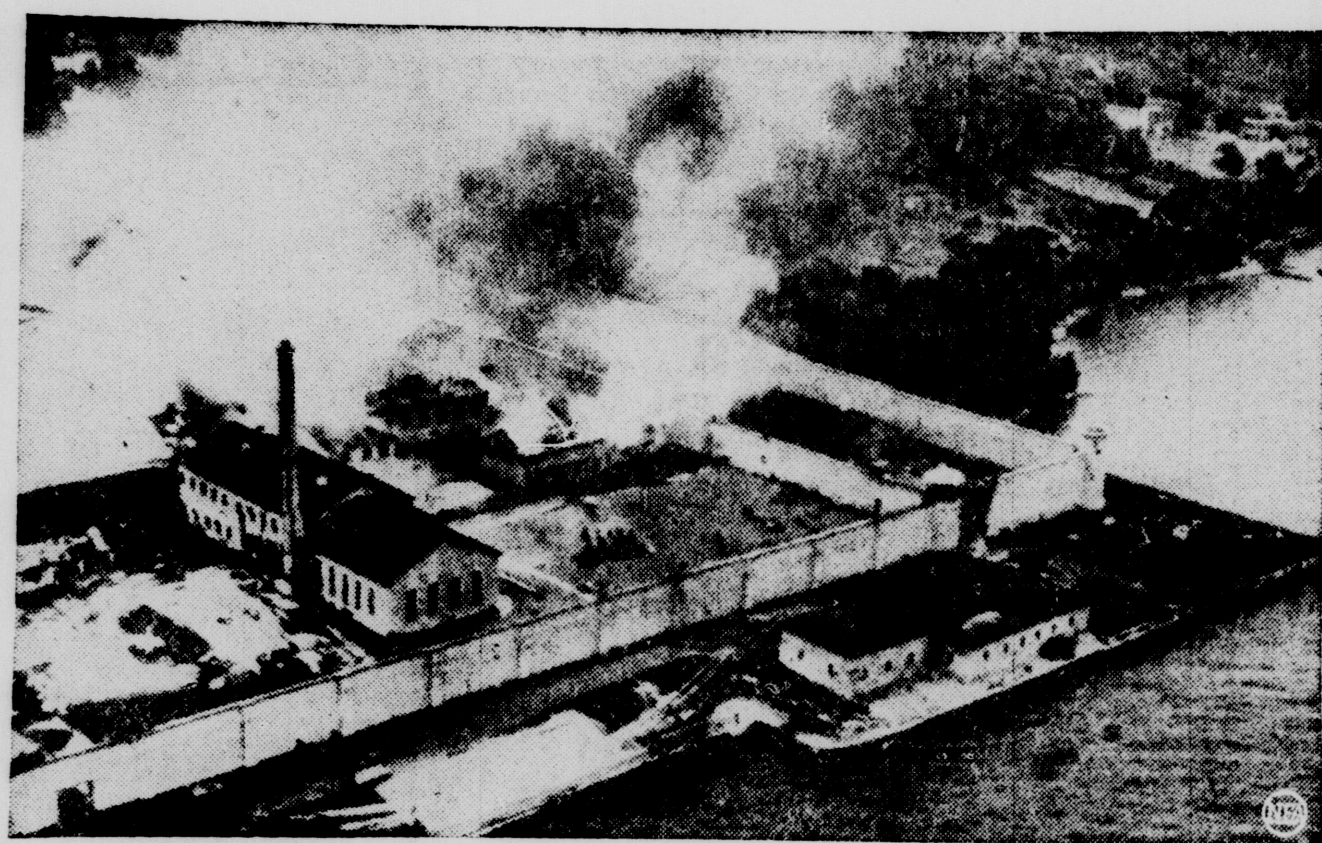

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has named J. George Stewart, former congressman from Delaware, to be architect of the Capitol in place of David Lynn, who is retiring Sept. 30 after more than 30 years' service.

AS CANADIAN PRISON RIOT RAGED—Convicts are guarded in a corner of the yard at Kingston, Ont., penitentiary as smoke billows from the prison after more than 700 convicts attempted to escape. First of Two Articles—

Allied Powers Feel Dr. John Is Reds' Master German Spy

By DANIEL DE LUCE

BERLIN (AP)—Dr. Otto John is identified now by rufel Allied powers as Russia's master German spy.

The man who dined cozily in Washington two months ago with Allen Dulles, Central Intelligence Agency director, and curried favor with the British Secret Service for 10 years, is openly in the Communist camp today.

Until he motored into Berlin's Soviet sector the night of July 20 as casually as driving around the block—Dr. John was security chief of the West German government.

His Office for Protection of the Constitution (OPC) spent two million dollars a year from the federal treasury on espionage. His mission to ferret out and expose Communist and Nazi plotters inside the Bonn republic.

This work was directly connected not only with the security of the West German state but of 400,000 allied troops.

From his intelligence headquarters in Cologne, Dr. John maintained continual contact with representatives inside Germany of Britain's MI5 intelligence network, the French Deuxieme Bureau and America's CIA.

Inevitably, he learned a great deal about what the Allies did for their own to fight Communist espionage, which is periodically informed with new agents and additional money from the Soviet stronghold of East Germany.

He cut quite a figure, this blue-eyed, blond, 6-foot lawyer, with a cloak-and-dagger bent. With the benefit of hindsight, Allied intelligence now assumes that he must have been a double agent in Soviet service for many years.

Fear of eventual exposure is considered the primary motive for his switch. The British say now that they became uncertain about John about 10 months before his overt defection. They never told the Americans, French and West Germans of such doubts, however.

This personable, talented deserter, born 45 years ago in the historic university town of Marburg, has mixed with princes and revolutionaries, Gestapo brutes and Red stool pigeons, austere idealists and sex-mad libertines.

A boy wonder with a legal degree, he was appointed business trustee of Luft Hansa, the Nazi government's international airline, in 1936, when he was barely 27.

It is known that he established contact with a German baron who deserted the Nazi diplomatic service for British asylum in 1939, then deserted the British for Communist East Germany after the war.

Allied intelligence can only speculate now on the possible links that John forged with the Red Chapel (Rotekapelle) and Red Three, the Soviet spy rings that sprang up within Hitler's occupied Europe after 1941.

When the bomb plot against the Fuehrer was hatched in 1944, John was in on it along with hundreds of other officials. When the assassination failed, John escaped on a Luft Hansa plane to Madrid, and the story is that he turned over top secrets of the V-weapon rocket base at Peenemuende to British agents who spirited him to London.

He was soon welcomed into British counterintelligence. At last, resettling in the Bonn republic, John was the British-favored choice in 1950 to head the new federal security office. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer did not care for him, but John got the job. In his hush-hush work, John often received mysterious Soviet zone visitors. He also cultivated two old friends: Dr. Wolfgang Wohlgemuth, much-married West Berlin playboy and parlor pink, and U.S. Counterintelligence Capt. Wolfgang Hofer, a German who had emigrated in 1938 and acquired American citizenship.

Promoting for himself a coast-to-coast tour of the United States, John returned from it in mid-June after being cordially welcomed to the CIA headquarters and Pentagon in Washington and to U.S. defense plants.

At 9 p.m. on July 20—the 10th anniversary of the bomb plot—John was driving Wohlgemuth and himself in the latter's sedan when a West Berlin customs officer halted them at the Sandkrug bridge over the Spree Canal.

Behind, in a British sector hotel, Mrs. John, a woman seven years older than her husband, and Prince Louis Ferdinand were waiting for John to come back from an unexpected errand and join them at dinner. They had all attended unvarying memorial services that day for anti-Nazi slaughtered by the Gestapo.

"I must warn you that you are entering the Soviet sector," the customs officer told John. "That's where we want to go," he answered lightly, and drove on.

It was three days later, on July 23, that Capt. Hofer, while being questioned on the John case by two higher counterintelligence officers, went distraught into the next room of his Berlin apartment, took out his service pistol and killed himself with a bullet through the head.

During the Revolution there was a profitable gold mine at Newton, Conn.

U. S. Officials Fear French EDC Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Department officials from Secretary of State Dulles down were reported fearful today that new French defense proposals might kill the cherished six-nation European army plan.

Authoritative American informants seemed convinced changes in the European Defense Community plan, proposed by French Premier Pierre Mendes-France, were far too drastic to be accepted by the other countries involved.

And they foresaw little or no chance that the other proposed European army partners—West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—could find any formula for reconciling their own views with the new French attitude.

Foreign ministers of the six nations are to meet in Brussels Thursday to discuss the problem.

All participants except France and Italy have ratified the treaty.

In a move to explain the new French plan, Ambassador Henri Bonnet met secretly at the State Department yesterday with Acting Secretary Walter Bedell Smith.

Smith was reported to share the view that the French plan imperils the entire future of the defense community. However, he was said to be leading an intensive drive to find some sort of middle path which might be acceptable to France and the other European army partners. Some other officials were reported pessimistic over his chances.

In a further U.S. move to bolster EDC's prospects, Chairman Wiley (R-Wis) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee announced he will leave for Europe today to talk over the matter—at Dulles' request—with British and French officials, including Mendes-France.

Patrol Arrests Man For Stealing Deputy's Automobile at Gunpoint

INDEPENDENCE (AP)—A man identified by the Highway Patrol as Grover C. Robinson, 26, was arrested last night after stealing a deputy sheriff's car at gunpoint.

Deputy Herman Weyland said he saw Robinson walking down the street carrying several weapons. So he stopped to question him. Robinson disarmed him and drove away in the patrol car. Later, at gunpoint, he stole another vehicle from a Kansas City couple.

Only one of the injured was admitted to a hospital. Leroy Byrd, 29-year-old Negro laborer, was struck by the street car as he was crossing the street. He suffered head injuries and a possible fractured left leg.

Twelve of the injured, all passengers in the vehicle, were treated and released.

Officers said the streetcar swung around the corner of 14th and Franklin after hitting the switch, hitting the pedestrian and cars on the way.

Congress Does In Minutes What Did Take Days—End Is Near

WASHINGTON (AP)—When Congress starts doing in minutes what used to take days, that's a sure sign the legislators are ready to go home.

Just that happened in the Senate last night. After a few minutes of friendly discussion, the twice-revised atomic energy bill whisked through 59-17. The first time through it touched off 13 days of speechmaking.

The House lost no time itself in passing by roll call, 305 to 2, a measure to outlaw the Communist party and deprive Communist-dominated unions of labor law protection.

Today is turnabout: the Senate, under unanimous consent agreement to limit debate, takes up the anti-Communist bill. If it further amends the legislation, as expected, the bill will have to go back to the House for acceptance there or referral to a Senate-House conference committee to work out differences.

The House in turn has a final chance at the atomic energy bill, which revises the basic atomic energy law to allow private industry to produce atomic power and to permit a limited sharing of atomic secrets with U.S. allies. As this is already a Senate-passed compromise version, House approval would send it to President Eisenhower for signing.

A conference committee paved the way for the Senate's okay yesterday by settling on a provision for some compulsory sharing of private atomic energy patents, as the Senate had asked.

Congressional leaders gave adjournment-hungry legislators a lift after a conference with Eisenhower yesterday. Senate GOP Leader Knowland of California and House Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) said Congress may be able to get out of town by week's end.

The Senate-House farm bill conferees broke a deadlock, deciding in favor of Senate provisions allowing lower dairy supports than

Baby Drowns In Tub As Sister Looks On

KANSAS CITY (AP)—An 18-month-old baby girl, left in a bathtub to play with her sister while dinner was prepared, drowned at the home of a baby-sitter late yesterday.

Mrs. William M. Roberts, the baby-sitter, said she put the two children, Raelene Marks, the victim, and her sister, Pamela Marks, 3, in a few inches of water while she worked in the kitchen. Mrs. Roberts said she heard Pamela crying and went in to discover Raelene face down in the water.

She said the tub was three-fourths full. "The faucet was running full force."

The victim was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Marks. The father is a naval airman in Newfoundland. The mother usually leaves the children while she works in a downtown store.

Soviet Sets Bigger Goal for Grain Yield

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government today announced its goal in the "grow more grain" drive had been greatly exceeded for 1954, and set its eyes on a bigger increase for 1955 and 1956.

Tass, official news agency, said the Soviet Council of Ministers and the Communist party's Central Committee had reported that the plan for plowing virgin soil had been fulfilled by 156 per cent by collective farms and 176 per cent by state farms. (figures were not given in acreage.)

Important changes in the farm law including Eisenhower's request for a flexible price support scale, may come up in the House today and perhaps the Senate too. Final passage seemed assured.

Passed by the House was a Senate-amended bill to hike the national debt limit temporarily from 275 to 281 billion dollars. Next step: Eisenhower's signature.
